Managing Menstruation in Mongolia's Schools
2014
The U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF) launches a movement to encourage governments to make schools more comfortable, safe and dignified places for menstruating students by 2024.
2016
A UNICEF study reports that Mongolian girls are at risk for depression and absenteeism due to the menstruation management challenges and recommends improving washroom facilities in schools and dormitories, increasing access to menstrual health products, and implementing a national program to fully address girls' sanitation needs.
2018
The U.N. Office for Human Rights recommends the Government of Mongolia prioritize providing menstrual hygiene supplies to schools and dormitories.
2020
An Asian Development Bank report finds that "lack of privacy and facilities is a problem, especially during menstruation, which increases the likelihood of absenteeism and school dropouts."

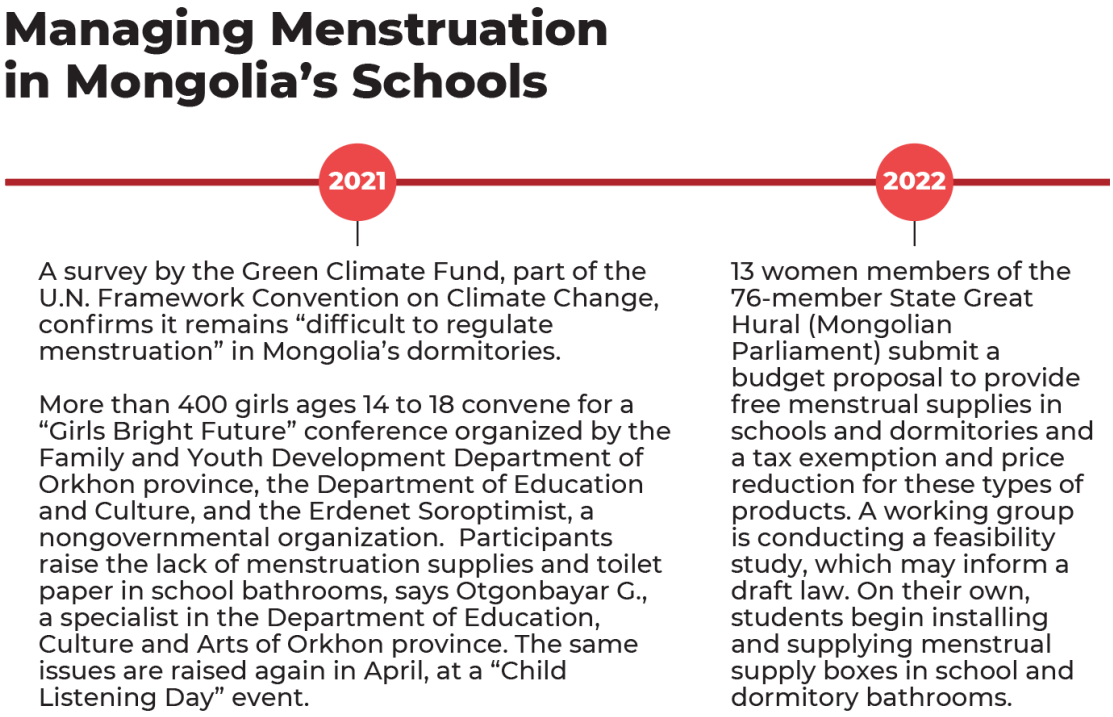
Managing Menstruation in Mongolia's Schools

2014
The U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF) launches a movement to encourage governments to make schools more comfortable, safe and dignified places for menstruating students by 2024.

2016
A UNICEF study reports that Mongolian girls are at risk for depression and absenteeism due to the menstruation management challenges and recommends improving washroom facilities in schools and dormitories, increasing access to menstrual health products, and implementing a national program to fully address girls' sanitation needs.

2018
The U.N. Office for Human Rights recommends the Government of Mongolia prioritize providing menstrual hygiene supplies to schools and dormitories.

2020
An Asian Development Bank report finds that "lack of privacy and facilities is a problem, especially during menstruation, which increases the likelihood of absenteeism and school dropouts."



Managing Menstruation
in Mongolia's Schools
2021
A survey by the Green Climate Fund, part of the U.N. Framework Convention on Climate Change, confirms it remains "difficult to regulate menstruation" in Mongolia's dormitories.
More than 400 girls ages 14 to 18 convene for a "Girls Bright Future" conference organized by the Family and Youth Development Department of Orkhon province, the Department of Education and Culture, and the Erdenet Soroptimist, a nongovernmental organization. Participants raise the lack of menstruation supplies and toilet paper in school bathrooms, says Otgonbayar G., a specialist in the Department of Education, Culture and Arts of Orkhon province. The same issues are raised again in April, at a "Child Listening Day" event.
2022
13 women members of the 76-member State Great Hural (Mongolian Parliament) submit a budget proposal to provide free menstrual supplies in schools and dormitories and a tax exemption and price reduction for these types of products. A working group is conducting a feasibility study, which may inform a draft law. On their own, students begin installing and supplying menstrual supply boxes in school and dormitory bathrooms.

Managing Menstruation in Mongolia's Schools

2021
A survey by the Green Climate Fund, part of the U.N. Framework Convention on Climate Change, confirms it remains "difficult to regulate menstruation" in Mongolia's dormitories.

More than 400 girls ages 14 to 18 convene for a "Girls Bright Future" conference organized by the Family and Youth Development Department of Orkhon province, the Department of Education and Culture, and the Erdenet Soroptimist, a nongovernmental organization. Participants raise the lack of menstruation supplies and toilet paper in school bathrooms, says Otgonbayar G., a specialist in the Department of Education, Culture and Arts of Orkhon province. The same issues are raised again in April, at a "Child Listening Day" event.

2022
13 women members of the 76-member State Great Hural (Mongolian Parliament) submit a budget proposal to provide free menstrual supplies in schools and dormitories and a tax exemption and price reduction for these types of products. A working group is conducting a feasibility study, which may inform a draft law. On their own, students begin installing and supplying menstrual supply boxes in school and dormitory bathrooms.

Original Text

INFORMATION FOR TIMELINE GRAPHIC:
Managing Menstruation Among Mongolian Students

2014: The U.N. Children's Fund (UNICEF) launches a movement to encourage governments to make schools more comfortable, safe and dignified places for menstruating students by 2024 (CQ_link).

2016: A UNICEF study (CQ_Link_English) (CQ_Link_Mongolian) reports that Mongolian girls are at risk for depression and absenteeism due to the menstruation management challenges (CQ_Link_English), (CQ_Link_Mongolian) and recommends improving washroom facilities in schools and dormitories, increasing access to menstrual health products, and implementing a national program to fully address girls' sanitation needs. (CQ_Link_Mongolian) (CQ_Link_Mongolian). (CQ_Link) (CQ_Link_English),

2018: The U.N. Office for Human Rights recommends the Government of Mongolia prioritize providing menstrual hygiene supplies to schools and dormitories. (CQ_Link)

2020: Asian Development Bank report finds that “lack of privacy and facilities is a problem, especially during menstruation, which increases the likelihood of absenteeism and school dropouts.” (CQ_Link_page8)

2021: A survey by the Green Climate Fund, part of the U.N. Framework Convention on Climate Change, confirms it remains "difficult to regulate menstruation” in Mongolia’s dormitories (CQ_Link_page11).

2021: More than 400 girls ages 14 to 18 convene for a “Girls Bright Future” conference organized by the Family and Youth Development Department of Orkhon province, the Department of Education and Culture, and the Erdenet Soroptimist, a nongovernmental organization. (CQ_Otgonbayar Participants raise the lack of menstruation supplies and toilet paper in school bathrooms, says Otgonbayar G., a specialist in the Department of Education, Culture and Arts of Orkhon province (CQ_Source sheet). (CQ_Link), (CQ_Otgonbayar). The same issues are raised again in April, at a “Child Listening Day” event. (CQ_Link) (CQ_Otgonbayar)

2022: 13 women members of the 76-member State Great Hural (Mongolian Parliament) submit a budget proposal to provide free menstrual supplies in schools and dormitories and a tax exemption and price reduction for these types of products. (CQ_Munkhtsetseg) A working group is conducting a feasibility study, which may inform a draft law. (CQ_Munkhtsetseg) On their own, students begin installing and supplying menstrual supply boxes in school and dormitory bathrooms.